Return To Prominence

Chi Phi is returning itself to prominence! Last year Chi Phi saw an unprecedented undergraduate membership growth of 19% and we have raised our rolls to 63 Chapters and Colonies.

With a new Grand Council sworn into office during our June Congress in San Antonio, Texas we are excited to continue our positive trend by focusing on three specific areas of development, improved communications, alumni development and membership growth.

To better assist in these areas the national staff recently welcomed Vincent Verteramo, Field Executive which replaces the former Chapter Leadership Consultant Program. Verteramo is a former Chapter Alpha from the recently chartered Zeta Theta Chapter at SUNY-Oneonta and began his tenure with Chi Phi Fraternity on July 18th, 2005. Future plans call for a newly created position of Director of Alumni Development. This position will allow the National Office to provide vital resources to our Regional Alumni Counselors, Chapter Advisors, Alumni Associations and House Corporations.

On the expansion front, last spring Chi Phi launched a successful return to our Delta Phi Sigma Chapter at Virginia Tech University and formed a new Colony at Shepherd University, located in Shepherdstown, West Virginia. Chi Phi also has bold plans this fall with a re-organization of Theta Delta Chapter at the University of Florida. We continue to work hard to return Chi Phi to its roots as well as grow on new campuses.

We look forward to continuing our return to prominence and hope that you will continue to support the mission and values of Chi Phi.

Kindest Fraternal Regards,

Michael Azarian

PIONEERING

a New Kind of Development:

THE BROTHER WITHIN

By: Richard Kuerston, Director of Membership Development

The past few years of our Fraternity's history were rich with new advances, new programming, and ever-increasing opportunities for our members to enhance all facets of their lives. Following this tradition, the Chi Phi National Office was proud to offer yet another program which gave our members a chance to challenge themselves, examine their values, and develop themselves both internally and externally. The Chi Phi Wilderness Academy, which premiered this past summer, was a complete and resounding success for its participants and for the Fraternity as a whole.

The Chi Phi Wilderness Academy was created in an attempt to give Chi Phi undergraduates an alternate venue to develop their leadership and teamwork skills, as well as to discuss Chi Phi Ritual and important issues that affect Greek undergraduates everywhere. For years, Chi Phi undergraduates have learned and benefited from "classroom" style programs such as the College of Excellence and the Regional Leadership Alliances. The Wilderness Academy differs from these programs because it is designed to take students out of their comfort zones and help them to examine their Fraternity and starting and ending point, the itineraries changed daily based on the weather, the needs of the group, and the advice of the expert guides who accompanied all the trips. A grueling hike sometimes transformed itself into a leisurely float down the Cherry Creek River, and a "sit around camp" day would often turn into an arduous four-hour summit attempt. While in the wilderness, participants were given instruction in basic route finding and navigation, survival skills, and Leave-No-Trace backpacking techniques, not to mention the unique skill of cooking for a group of six or more over a campfire.

themselves in a challenging and often foreign environment. Judging from the feedback from this year's Wilderness Academy participants, the program definitely achieved its goals.

This summer, instead of a typical calendar of routine events, three groups of Chi Phi Brothers took three distinct journeys through northern California as part of the very first Chi Phi Wilderness Academy, proving that membership development comes in all shapes and sizes, and takes place in even the wildest of environments.

Beginning on May 18th and spanning through July 29th, three separate Wilderness Academy trips set out for a challenging week of discovery, education, and fun. Two of the three groups traveled to the Sierra Nevada Mountains in the Emigrant Wilderness, and the remaining trip took place on the remote northern coast of California. All groups traveled far into the backcountry to areas where rattlesnake sightings were more common than running into other humans. While each trip had a definite

On three different seven-day trips, 22 Chi Phi Brothers were entirely disconnected from their families, from their campuses, and from every aspect of their everyday lives. Each Brother came from a different chapter, a different background, and a different part of the country. Some had years of outdoor experience, and some hadn't even broken in their boots. These men were different men embarking on similar journeys, and I was lucky enough to be one of them.

We left all technology, all modern conveniences, and all communication with the outside world behind. There would be no television, no internet, and no electricity for the entire trip. On our backs we carried two sets of clothes, our tent, our sleeping bag, our food, and a Chi Phi Ritual Book. Our backpacks weighed about 50 pounds for a 25 mile journey.

Right: Sunrise Day 4, participants preparing for overnight solo and fast.

Our journey into the wilderness, and into ourselves, began at the Arcata-Eureka airport – a booming hub of modern air-travel that contained a total of two departure gates. Somehow, despite a slew of weather related flight delays, the participants of the first Wilderness Academy arrived throughout the day and eventually rendezvoused with our guides, Jayson, Garret, and Will. After a quick trip into town for a bite to eat and for some last-minute supplies, we set out along a quiet county road that slowly carried us south along enormous cliffs and through beautiful valleys – just in time to see our first pacific coast sunset. We set up our first campsite at the mouth of the Mattole River and quickly jumped into a discussion about the journey ahead, the concept of “Leave No Trace,” and the customary series of introductions. Thanks to a long day of cross-continental travel, our group was entirely worn out and pretty much crashed as soon as possible. Our final participant, Coil Fiori, Saint Leo, 2006 made his way to our camp sometime around 3:00 a.m., after an unbelievable series of canceled and delayed flights.

The next morning, bright and early, our group took the first step on our 25 mile journey. With our supplies divided among our backpacks and our daily leaders in charge of our maps, we set out as a group on the first leg of the journey, a six mile trek. Our entire journey would take us about ten miles south along the beaches and bluff’s of California’s “Lost Coast,” the longest stretch of undeveloped and unpaved coastline in the continental United States.

With a 50-pound backpack, even the easiest promenade can become challenging. Add the scorching power of a California sun and the impossible task of hiking on extremely fine beach sand, and suddenly our group of journeymen in their prime struggled to maintain a one – mile - per - hour pace. Nonetheless, our proximity to nature and the never-ending serenade of the ocean gave us more than enough to absorb along each step of the way.

Naturally, the Wilderness Academy experience instills certain survivalist skills. It also provides hands-on-leadership training by requiring each participant to assume leadership of the group for a portion of the 25-mile expedition. Learning to work as a team with a group of disparate individuals obviously becomes vital for success on an outward bound journey – and on the job.

From wandering upon a pack of sunbathing sea lions, to keeping watch for the Lost Coast’s infamous “sleeper waves,” quietly watching a deer in an open meadow, and watching out for rattlesnakes along our trail, our journey was packed with a new surprise, a new challenge, a new sight, and a new discussion around every bend. After another full day of hiking, we made it to the Spanish Flats, the southernmost tip of our journey. Along the way, virtually no topic of conversation was taboo, and periodic breaks allowed us to jump into short discussions and debates about Chi Phi ritual, its meaning, and what lessons in leadership we could take from its pages and apply to our expedition.

The most influential component of leadership development however, is the role that values play in leadership. Given our organization’s core values of Truth, Honor, and Personal Integrity, and given the significance that our values hold in our ritual, the applicability and relevance of ritual to such a journey begins to come clear. In fact, the concept of taking the messages our founders left us about being men who spoke the truth, who lived honorable lives, and who carried themselves with integrity – all while appreciating and loving our Brothers, is truly one of the most succinct and complete lessons in leadership available.

Each day, we spent some amount of time reflecting as a group about the common challenges of the journey, of leading our chapters, and of life as 21st century men. Whether a conversation focused on the rattlesnake scares of the day, hazing and alcohol abuse on campus, or the pressure to conform to projected social norms as a man, the group’s primary question at hand was usually “what does our ritual, what do our values, tell us about this?” The answers, almost always subjective, taught a new skill to some of the most talented young leaders in our Fraternity: to consider our values before deciding on our actions. The significance of the basic cornerstone values of our founders are offered as a universal compass that can be applied to most life experiences.

One of the most basic components of the Wilderness Academy experience is becoming comfortable with not being comfortable. It’s a series of events that gradually remove each participant from all of life’s distractions, removing them from the hurried pace of a rat-race society and prompting each of them to focus inward. Over time, participants enter a place of acceptance and support as the teamwork and communication of the group comes together.

These men began the journey talking about their chapters’ recruitment challenges or their lack of funds, but time and distance brought the participants to a place where they begin discussing their life’s dreams, their fears, their goals, and their families. After those doors had been opened, true conversations about the source of more lofty issues facing their Chapters could be had. “So why do you think hazing is still a problem on your campus?” “Do we as Chi Phi Brothers have a duty to confront members that abuse alcohol?” “What can we do about the consistent abuse of women in fraternities when so many of us claim to be groups that consist of ‘gentlemen?’”

The pinnacle component of the Wilderness Academy experience, a 36-hour solo-fast, took each participant even further from his everyday life. For our group’s journey, it began after about half-day’s rest, on the evening of day four. Following dinner, our group departed warmth of the campfire in silence, rose the next morning, packed, and prepared to make it to our individual campsites- each a little nervous and each a little anxious about the looming solitude in his own way. Prior to leaving camp, we each declared an intention for our individual journey, and were sent out with only our backpacks, our tents, and a few tablets of iodine to sanitize our water. Despite our anxiety, our solo experiences brought each of us to an even more powerful level of inner contemplation. Each man hiked to a place where he felt his own connection to the forces of nature, and where he felt most able to contemplate his own intention. This process mimicked the centuries old Native American solo-fast, which functioned as a coming-of-age ceremony for young Native American males.

By this time, each man was thousands of miles from his Chapter and four days from society. His only music had been the whistle of coastal winds. Each man had his own personal journey and his own personal question. He was given the opportunity to reflect on his actions, to plan his life, and to search within himself. Some men used the time to evaluate who they had become as men. Some Brothers used the opportunity to search for their life's calling. Others spent their time declaring their passage into manhood with the elements that surrounded them. And others simply entered their solo-fast with the intention of spending time with God. Each man left the group with a mission to grow in some specific way as a person.

Naturally, many might wonder how easy, or how hard, spending a day and a half on one's own, without food and without companionship, can really be. Each man handled the challenge of spending an eternity with himself in his own way. I spent much of the time watching a family of birds come and go from a three-story rock that rested just barely above the shoreline at low-tide. Each wave slammed violently against the beach and provided a soothing background for the most powerful of contemplations. Then, after a night on our own, when the tree-shadows hit the hillside at about the same angle when they had on the morning of our departure from the group, we each returned to base-camp to meet and share our experiences with the brotherhood.

This solo is the capstone of the Wilderness Academy. Similar to many rites of passage seen in countless cultures and numerous belief systems, it brings each participant to the ultimate level of inner-reflection. Thus, the Wilderness Academy truly becomes an effort to develop the leader within. In turn, Chi Phi believes that the Wilderness Academy is better at training and educating members for leadership of their chapters, their campuses, their communities, and their societies. This experience is both an amazing opportunity to gain a harmony with nature and an enormous investment in each man's future.

After we ceremoniously returned to our brotherhood and resurrected our tents at base camp in Spanish Flats, we spent the remainder of the day sharing stories and revelations. We discussed what we had discovered in our journey, and how we felt that it applied to our lives as students, as leaders, and as Chi Phis. After a long evening of campfire dialogue, we each retired to our tents in preparation for our final journey, the return to civilization.

With an early rise and a quick breakfast of cereal, powdered milk, and matte tea, we began the arduous task of hiking a ten-mile trek along the path we had traveled only a few days earlier. Unlike our first trip however, our group would cover the path in a single day, a task that none of us imagined being possible.

As the journey back to the mouth of the Mattole River went on, each step brought us one step closer to society—one step closer to emails, to cell phones, and to the rat-race of modern society. Unfortunately, it also took us one step further from the unique journey we all shared at Spanish Flats. Although we were happy we would be returning to our mattresses and to modern plumbing, each man was certainly saddened that this day would be our last full day together. And true enough, after a 12-hour journey, we made it back to the exact spot we had departed from. Somewhere along the way, we had dubbed ourselves the "Lost Coast Chapter" of Chi Phi.

That evening, we wrapped our trip up with one last night around the campfire. The next day we would rise early enough to eat, to shower (our first in seven days), and to drive back to civilization. The hour-long drive was spent listening to a mishmash mix of John Denver and O.A.R. We returned our gear and stopped in town for a quick bite to eat at a local restaurant. After a week on our own, our first taste of "real food" was certainly welcome; however, our week of peace and quiet was shattered by a television in the restaurant that featured the obnoxious banter of a CNN reporter covering the "crisis over a looming filibuster in the Senate." All I remember was how much I longed to turn around and to go back – to return to the peace, the calm, and the inner-solitude of the Lost Coast. That was where we had all been able to be ourselves. That was where we had truly asked ourselves what kind of life we were leading. That was where we were truly able to come to peace with who we were inside and with where our lives were going, as citizens, as brothers, and as men.

The Wilderness Academy is one of the most significant tools Chi Phi has and one of the most powerful experiences an undergraduate leader can go through. Unlike the College of Excellence, gargantuan by comparison, the Wilderness Academy focuses on building better men. It focuses on asking tough questions, in an environment that doesn't allow for excuses or for naiveté. It challenges people physically, mentally, and emotionally, through a true journey that covers both actual miles and miles within. Unlike the Regional Leadership Alliances, elementary by comparison, the Wilderness Academy doesn't focus its efforts on recruitment strategies or budgeting processes; the Wilderness Academy is about much higher, loftier discussions about life, about leadership, and about how we each deal with the challenges that each day brings.

This is why Fraternities are more relevant to society than they have been at any other time in the modern history of Greek-lettered societies. This is why experiential values-based leadership programs are important. And this is why Chi Phi, like many other Fraternities, will continue to innovative new leadership programs. With the advent of this new program, Chi Phi's multi-track approach to developing leaders has become that much more complete.

Although each of the other Wilderness Academy trips was sure to vary in its own way, I am confident that the men on those journeys covered just as much ground and just as much material. This year, 22 men experienced this powerful experience and achieved an unbelievable feat. This year, 22 men covered roughly 25 miles each. And being more aware citizens, more able people, and stronger Chi Phis was truly our reward.

While the amount of positive feedback from all trip participants has been staggering, one piece of feedback has been universal among the participants: the quality and caliber of their trip's guides was always the first thing out of the mouth of every returning member. Guides Will, Jayson, and Garrett of The Wilderness Within were a perfect match for Chi Phi. They worked expertly to mold the trip to each individual and often left days at a time open for the group to decide what it wanted to do. Their experience in leading and facilitating group discussions created an atmosphere around the campfire which was always upbeat, open, tolerant, and meaningful. While not Chi Phi Brothers themselves, each guide was quickly incorporated into the group and created what will hopefully be life-long relationships with the participants. Will, Jayson, and Garrett spend much of their year working in the emerging field of wilderness therapy, where they often spend months at a time working and living in the wilderness with troubled youth. Although our Chi Phi participants did not present the same challenges as their normal clientele, the therapeutic techniques used were just as applicable and effective, if not more so.

This first Chi Phi Wilderness Academy has achieved more than anyone had hoped. As an educational program, it is a valuable addition to Chi Phi's roster and a feature which sets us apart from many Greek organizations. More importantly, however, is its impact on each individual participant. It hard to explain how one's life can be so easily altered in such a short period, and how a single experience can allow you to see farther into yourself than you ever had before. While each participant may give you a different explanation, one thing is sure: they challenged themselves and succeeded. That is what the Wilderness Academy is all about. Being a part of this program's inaugural session was a journey that I will never forget and that I am still learning from.

CHI PHI GOES TO WASHINGTON

THE FOURTH ANNUAL GREEK CONGRESSIONAL EVENT WAS HELD IN WASHINGTON, D.C., APRIL 18 AND 19, 2005. FRATERNAL MEN AND WOMEN, REPRESENTING THE NORTH AMERICAN INTERFRATERNITY CONFERENCE AND THE NATIONAL PANHELLENIC CONFERENCE, CAME TOGETHER FOR TWO DAYS OF LOBBYING AND EDUCATING SENATORS, REPRESENTATIVES, AND THEIR STAFFS ABOUT LEGISLATION AND ISSUES THAT AFFECT THE GREEK COMMUNITY.

This year, Chi Phi's Executive Director, Michael Azarian, and Member Services Intern, Owen Whitehurst, attended the two-day event as representatives of the Chi Phi Fraternity. Brother Azarian and Brother Whitehurst met with over fifteen legislators and legislative aids over the course of two days with the dual agenda of educating our Nation's legislators about the positive qualities of Greek Organizations and lobbying for the passage of several pieces of legislation which will benefit Chi Phi and all Greek organizations.

The primary focus of Brother Azarian and Brother Whitehurst's trip was to lobby for the passage of the Collegiate Housing and Infrastructure Act (S. 713/H.R. 1548). The Act would allow fraternal educational foundations to use tax-deductible, charitable contributions to provide grants to local house corporations for the purpose of making infrastructure improvements to student housing. Currently, colleges and universities can use tax-deductible contributions for housing and infrastructure improvements whereas Greek organizations cannot. Brother Azarian and Brother Whitehurst achieved substantial success lobbying for the Collegiate Housing and Infrastructure act, as each Congressperson they met with agreed to sponsor the bill. Brother Azarian and Brother Whitehurst also advocated for the passage of the College Fire Prevention Act (H.R. 128), which would authorize a federal matching grant program to make life-safety improvements to collegiate housing, including Greek housing.

Would you like to let your Congressperson or local legislator know about the benefits of Greek life? Below are some helpful facts to include in your discussion!

- The NPC, NIC, and NPHC represent fraternities and sororities comprising more than 750,000 undergraduate members and over 9 million alumni members.
- Fraternal organizations are one of the most successful values-based, leadership development programs for college students, equipping members with management experience, values-based leadership skills, and interpersonal skills.
- Greek organizations are the largest network of young volunteers in the United States, providing over 10 million hours of volunteer service annually.
- The emphasis on service learning prepares members of Greek organizations for a lifetime of community involvement.
- Greek organizations are the largest, most visible, and most active values-based organizations on college campuses today.
- Fraternities and sororities, combined, are the largest not-for-profit student landlord in the United States. Greeks organizations own and manage over $3 billion in student housing at no cost to the American taxpayer. Greek organizations house 250,000 students a year, in over 8,000 facilities, which alleviates a growing problem of housing scarcity in public colleges and universities.
- Greek organizations provide valuable services to college students that are unmatched or unavailable anywhere else.

140th Congress

Closes as a Success

The stars are bright on Chi Phi, and the 140th Congress was a huge success. We had an attendance this year of over 140 members and guests at the Wyndham St. Anthony Hotel in San Antonio, TX. This year's Congress brought us the Chartering of the Iota Theta Chapter as well as the Order of 1892 ceremony for three Chi Phi alumni during the Congressional Banquet.

Congress is an opportunity for the National Office to recognize alumni and undergraduates for their accomplishments over the past years. It is also an opportunity for Chi Phi men from across the nation to gather and share experiences and ideas for the future. There was time for work, in sessions and committee meetings, and time for play, during meals and after the sessions were over for the day. We were also lucky enough to be in San Antonio when the Spurs won the NBA Championship. Mad Dogs and other such locations on the Riverwalk provided great times for social gathering and sharing.

The Leadership Dinner this year was at Boudro's, where one of our alumni, Chris Boone, Lambda Zeta 2001, currently works. The dinner was amazing, and if you are ever in San Antonio, I strongly recommend a visit to either the restaurant or Zinc. We were able to dine in the wine cellar with many alumni and special guests from the universities in the area.

Grand Alpha Rich Lane, Kappa Zeta 1993, and his Council were sworn in on the first full day of Congress and hit the ground running, ready to try new things and continue supporting the needs of undergraduates and alumni. The new Council consists of the following:

- Grand Beta: Robert Walker, Iota Delta 1970
- Grand Gamma: Jonathan Richmond,
Zeta 1962, Zeta Delta 1962
- Grand Delta: Christopher Shuler, Alpha Zeta 1984
- Grand Epsilon: Ronald Coleman, Alpha Zeta 1983
- Grand Zeta: James Davis, Omega 1975
- Grand Eta: George H.G. Hall, Iota Delta 1966
- Grand Theta: Ryan Capen, Epsilon Delta 2005
- Grand Iota: Joseph Mancini, Alpha 2007

Heritage and Traditions Counselor: Henry Rocco Carnevale, Mu 1980
Scholarship Counselor: Steven Hopkins, Nu 1999

Friday also brought the Chartering of the Schreiner Colony, which you can read about later in this magazine.

The second day brought the awards lunch and the Congressional Banquet; an in-depth focus on award recipients will be in the Winter Chakett. Pictures from this year's Congressional Banquet are available for ordering at www.mrd.photorelect.com. The men in attendance were able to visit the gravesite of William M. Byrd and witness the Chi Phi ceremony for those entering the Chapter Eternal.

While the members of Chi Phi Fraternity were working hard in sessions, the spouses and guests were out experiencing San Antonio. We would like to thank all of the spouses and guests for coming to Congress and for the ongoing support you give to Chi Phi Fraternity. We know that without your belief in this organization, many of the men that are able to give so much would not be able to do so.

The guest program included a visit to the Alamo, a boat ride on the Riverwalk, and brunch at Guenther House, as well as other activities. We were able to share stories about Chi Phi and each other over Mexican food on the Riverwalk, at the oldest restaurant on the river, Casa Rio.

The 141st Congress is now less than a year away, and plans are already in the works for the guest program in Chicago, IL. Congress will be at the Allegro Hotel off the Miracle Mile. We are planning shopping, museum visits, and maybe a baseball game or two (Go Cubs!!) for the guest program, and we look forward to you and your guest joining us in Chicago. Please mark your calendars for next year's Congress, June 22-25, 2006.

EDSEL E. MURRY

Remembered

I remember the day Ed Murry asked me, "have you ever thought about joining a fraternity?"

We were in the school of Industrial Design at Auburn University, in the spring of 1966.

Ed was a tall, thin, silent type from some place in Mississippi, and I was a Connecticut Yankee, literally, in King Arthur's court. We were an odd couple for sure.

Why he took a bead on me to come to a fraternity "smoker" was beyond me. But he did, and I went, and thus began a brotherly closeness enduring a span of over 40 years. My big brother Ed was one of the founders of the Chi Phi Colony at Auburn. I don't know very much about that part of him. I only know the double trouble we had for three short years while we matriculated in the School of Architecture and the Arts, and drank in all the fun at the Chi Phi house at 213 West Glenn. The highlight of that time was my initiation as the first initiate of the newly chartered Mu Delta Chapter, an honor both Ed and I reveled in. At Auburn in those days, we loved Shug Jordan and lost a lot of football games, but we never lost the party, particularly at the Chi Phi house. Ed could party with the best but out-worked all the rest. When he showed up at Auburn, he couldn't draw a straight line with a ruler, but before the end of his sophomore year, he had set the standard of perfection for creating idea sketches and renderings of his design projects. He learned it line by line, curve by curve. That was just his style, the way he did things.

Ed graduated ahead of me and left for the working world. I lost track of him for a few years until he called me. Just like the day he asked me if I'd thought about joining a fraternity, he asked "have you thought about gettin' a real design job?" I was employed as a packaging designer at the time. His straightforward, no-nonsense approach grabbed me again, and I flew to Chicago to attend the annual furniture exposition and get a taste of what he'd been doing. Ed had become one of the furniture industry's pre-eminent designers. He had quickly established himself as one of the best in the business. His stock-in-trade was the rare quality of developing elegant furniture that could actually be manufactured efficiently. He had become a master of his trade, no surprise to me. The opportunity wasn't right for me at the time, and we drifted apart again, this time for over 25 years.

Two years ago, I decided to track him down, and with the help of the folks at National Headquarters, I found him in Colorado. He was running from a tragedy in his life, living there alone with his young daughter, essentially unemployed, and crippled with arthritis. I had a need to see him, so I went out and spent some time with him. It was precious. We caught up on old times and drove through the majesty of the Rockies, commiserating about how nothing was quite the same and how we might still have a chance to save the world from poor design and stupidity in general. Shortly after my visit, I helped him move to Birmingham to be closer to some family. In October, we watched Auburn whip Tennessee; we spent Thanksgiving together at my place in Cincinnati; and, five months later, he was called to join our Chapter Eternal. My big brother Ed left me as unexpectedly as he had come. The guy who introduced me to the greatest time in my life, bar none(my days as a Chi Phi at Auburn(was gone.

What remains with me is not so much the good fortune of vivid memories, but the thankfulness that the tall silent type from Mississippi chose me to accompany him in sharing the brotherly love of the Chi Phi Fraternity. That was True Blue.

Edsel Eugene Murry, age 59 of Birmingham, Alabama, died Friday, April 29, 2005. He was a member of Clay Church of Christ. Ed Graduated from Auburn University in 1969 and was a founding member of Chin Phi's Mu Delta chapter there. He had a successful career in Industrial Design that spanned more than 20 years. He was also a cattleman and owner of Murwood Enterprises. He was preceded in death by his wife, Sue Murry. Survivors include his daughters, Carolyn Murry and Diane Murry.

EDSEL E. MURRY

Remembered

1946 - 2005

AN UNLIKELY REUNION.

Two paths crossed during an improbable scenario in offshore Gulf of Mexico federal waters, Main Pass 108, aboard the great jack-up marine vessel Wahoo. One path began in 1979 at Oglethorpe University in Atlanta, Georgia, initiating into the Rho Delta Chapter. The other began at State University of West Georgia, Alpha Zeta Chapter. Two brothers, with very different lives and from different decades, united under the common bond of fraternal brotherhood.

Brother Sheldon Inge's path brought him from Oglethorpe to St. Thomas, with all of the challenges of running a small business. Brother Inge completed his education in 1986 and returned to his native Mobile, Alabama. He is currently working as captain on a well services jack-up boat.

My path started at Alpha Zeta Chapter, then continued at Georgia Tech in 2000. I obtained degrees in chemistry and chemical engineering, respectively. After college I moved to Broussard, Louisiana, and then to Maurice, Louisiana, where I am currently employed as a field engineer for Schlumberger Well Intervention Services.

Our unlikely reunion started when our services were requested to work over a gas well in the Gulf of Mexico. I was through with my work shift for the day and wanted to shower and then relax in the galley/ TV room. I was wearing a shirt from homecoming, as I had many other times. Captain Inge, Rho Delta 1984, approached me and, in an instant, brought our pasts together. From there we each shared stories about college, fraternity, and life. I will always remember the stories we shared that hitch and ponder the benefits and bonds created from my experiences as a brother yesterday and today.

AFTER FOUR YEARS SCHREINER COLONY RECEIVES CHARTER

The road to achieving our charter as the Iota Theta Chapter was a long and tough one, but thanks to the hard work and dedication from all in the colony we were able to prevail. The Schreiner Colony was founded on February 21, 2001. The beginning year was a difficult one, with the colony facing problems with finances and leadership. The fall semester of 2001 and spring semester of 2002 saw signs of improvement with the Alpha Pledge Class adding four members to the fraternity. During the summer of 2002 the Schreiner Colony suffered a loss of membership as many brothers decided not to return to Schreiner University the following year. By the fall semester of 2003 the Schreiner Colony had four members and needed a great year of recruitment. Luckily, in the spring of 2004 the colony picked up another four members, doubling its size to eight. Then, through the fall of 2004 and spring of 2005, the fraternity was able to double its size again to 16. Over the summer of 2005 these 16 men finally got the charter they had been working so hard to obtain.

On the road to receiving our charter, the fraternity built a strong relationship with the university and the national office. Although the colony suffered problems with membership in the early years of its existence, it was fortunate to never suffer insurmountable financial problems. During the summer of 2004 at the 139th congress in Atlanta, Georgia, the Schreiner Colony received the E. Bates Block Award for campus involvement. On campus, the Schreiner Colony won such events as Sack-A-Thon 2004 and 2005, Mocktails 2004, and The Big Chill 2004. The Schreiner Colony has also participated in such community service events as a highway trash pick-up, a retirement center festival, and Relay for Life, while keeping the highest grade point average (gpa) of all fraternities on campus. Although the Schreiner Colony has had a rough road leading towards its charter, the dedication of its members has kept the fraternity alive and has built a solid platform for those to follow in the future. Speaking of the future, the Iota Theta Chapter plans to once again double its membership and to improve its impressive gpa. Other specific goals of the chapter are to maintain a positive relationship with both the university and national office, to raise money for Relay for Life, and to win the Ghering Award for best chapter of the year.

Fall 2005 Expansion

update

By Brian Tenclinger, Director of Undergraduate Services

The fall term of 2005 will be momentous for two dormant Chi Phi Chapters as part of the Fraternity's expansion efforts.

Virginia Polytechnic & State University in Blacksburg, Virginia. From 1992-1998, Virginia Tech was home to the Delta Phi Sigma Chapter of Chi Phi Fraternity. In 1998, the Chapter closed because of falling numbers, poor organization, and lack of an Alumni Association. The fraternity continued to operate but reverted back to its local identity, Delta Phi Sigma, until 2003, when one of the new Delta Phi Sigma Alums made contact with one of the original chartering members from 1994. Together, the Chi Phi and Delta Phi Sigma Alumni have taken the past year or so to get to know each other and have entered into many conversations to forecast a future return of Chi Phi Fraternity at Virginia Tech.

Many similarities were found in the spirit and character of the original founding fathers of Chi Phi at Virginia Tech and the current roster of 28 brothers of Delta Phi Sigma. Under the leadership of Chris Jennings ('96) and undergraduate Matthew Burger, the Delta Phi Sigma Colony of Chi Phi Fraternity was welcomed into the University community on Saturday, April 23, 2005. The colony will enjoy a renewed commitment by the National Office and financial and logistical support from the newly formed Delta Phi Sigma Alumni Association. The Chi Phi Alumni from Virginia Tech look forward to officially welcoming the colony and Delta Phi Sigma Alumni back to the scarlet and blue.

National Office staff members Brian Tenclinger (Director of Undergraduate Services) and Vincent Verteramo (Field Executive) will spend a week with the undergraduates and alumni in late August. During that period, Tenclinger and Verteramo will host workshops and seminars for the undergraduates and alumni, meet individually with colony officers, host a dinner with the Interfraternity Council executive board, and host a reception for all of the fraternities and sororities to mix and mingle with the colony members. The late-August visit will focus on fall recruitment schedules and opportunities. The Colony has been approved to participate in the Interfraternity Council formal recruitment period in September. Alumni from Delta Phi Sigma are working with alumni from the Alpha Chapter at the University of Virginia to host an initiation weekend in late October for the Colony members.

From a meager beginning in October of 1872, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, popularly known as Virginia Tech, has evolved into a comprehensive university of national and international prominence. As Virginia's largest university, with 25,600 students and one of the top 50 research institutions in the nation, it is an institution that firmly embraces a history of putting knowledge to work. That tradition is rooted in the motto Ut Prosim, "That I May Serve," and the land-grant missions of instruction, research, and solving the problems of society through public service and outreach activities.

The University of Florida, Gainesville, Florida. The Theta Delta Chapter at the University of Florida has been dormant since 2001; however, the time has come to re-colonize what was once one of Chi Phi's largest chapters. A healthy partnership has been established with a key group of Theta Delta alumni, the University, and the National Office. Together, the parties involved have been drafting a plan for expansion that actually began approximately a year ago, when four undergraduates from the Deerfield Beach area made contact with the National Office expressing their interest in starting a Chi Phi chapter at the University of Florida. Since then, a plan has unfolded that will put much focus on Theta Delta's healthy return.

A total of five professional staff from the National Office will be involved in the re-colonization efforts that are being coordinated by Brian Tenclinger, Director of Undergraduate Services. Chi Phi will begin the recruitment process with a large marketing campaign at the University in early September. From September 9-30, the five staff members from the National Staff will rotate in and out of Gainesville to coordinate the recruitment efforts. After a week of high visibility, marketing, and receptions, Chi Phi will begin a formal recruitment week in mid-September. Each day of the recruitment week is designed to spotlight one aspect of fraternity life: philanthropy/service, social, athletic, academic/scholastic, and alumni involvement. The staff has coordinated expansion efforts and recruitment events with the help of Eric Manin (Theta Delta '92), Gary Simons (Theta Delta '64), Al Warrington (Theta Delta '55), Dave Davis (Theta Delta '73), and Ron Frank (Nu Delta '83).

The University of Florida is a major public, comprehensive, land-grant, research university. The state's oldest, largest, and most comprehensive university, Florida is among the nation's most academically diverse public universities. Florida has a long history of established programs in international education, research, and service. It is one of only 17 public, land-grant universities that belong to the Association of American Universities. The University was founded in 1853 as the East Florida Seminary in Ocala. The seminary moved to Gainesville in 1860 and consolidated with the state's land-grant Florida Agricultural College. In 1905 the college became a university. The University of Florida is now home to 46,000 students, making it one of the five largest universities in the nation.

Chi Phi Fraternity
Invites nominations and candidates for the position of Director of Alumni Development

JOB DESCRIPTION

The Director of Alumni Development reports directly to the Executive Director and is primarily responsible for providing support and services to alumni and lead the creation and implementation of a comprehensive development strategy for the enhancement of the Chi Phi Fraternity and Educational Trust.

Required qualifications include but are not limited to the following:

- Strong leadership skills.
- B.A. or B.S. degree.
- Professional experience of 2 - 5 years in for-profit, not-for-profit management, alumni development, fundraising, or a related field.
- Ability to travel extensively (roughly 35% of the time).

JOB RESPONSIBILITIES:

- Plan, initiate and implement fundraising activities; including identification, cultivation, solicitation and stewardship of donor prospects for the Fraternity and Educational Trust.
- Conduct and coordinate major gifts, annual giving, planned giving, donor recognition, capital campaigns and all related promotional efforts for the Fraternity and Educational Trust.
- Oversee operations pertaining to Chapter Advisors, Alumni Associations/House Corporations, Chi Phi Clubs and Regional Alumni Counselors.
- Manage the recruitment of new alumni volunteers for new and existing Chapters and Colonies.

- Maintain and develop educational resources such as the fraternity's Chapter Advisors Manual, Alumni Framework, and various supplemental documents.
- Provide educational resources and training to alumni officers through workshops, Chapter visitations, telephone conversations, email, and ongoing communication.
- Development and implementation of educational programming including Regional Leadership Alliances, College of Excellence and any new educational initiatives.
- Contribute to the successful completion of the annual Chi Phi Congress.
- Attend major Chapter and Colony alumni events, Grand Council and Educational Trust meetings, NIC/AFA and FEA conferences.
- Work with Executive Director and other staff to ensure that services are rendered within budget guidelines.
- Complete various tasks assigned by the Executive Director.
- Adhere to and enforce the Chi Phi Fraternity's Personal Safety Policy.

Resumes should be submitted with cover letter no later than October 31, 2005, by 5:30 PM EST to:
